IFAPA

IFAPA is an international, crossdisciplinary professional organization of individuals, institutions, and agencies supporting, promoting and disseminating information about adapted physical activity, disability sport, and all aspects of sport, movement, and exercise science for individuals of all abilities.

Members of IFAPA include practitioners, researchers, scholars, pedagogues, scientists and students in a broad spectrum of fields, such as regular and adapted physical education, community and therapeutic recreation, dance and creative arts, sport training and competition, leisure education, psychomotor therapy, kinesiology, medicine, nutrition, rehabilitation, special education, occupational and physical therapy, gerontology, and many other areas.

International Symposia on APA (ISAPA)

The International Symposium on Adapted Physical Activity (ISAPA) is held every second year to provide physical activity professionals with an opportunity to share their knowledge and experience.

All interested individuals are encouraged to participate. The participation of people with disabilities is particularly encouraged to ensure that adapted physical activity professionals remain "in touch " with the needs of the people they wish to serve.

ISAPA programmes include research presentations, building sessions for the discussion of new ideas, practical workshops for new activities and an international film contest. In addition to the ISAPA, regional conferences are held regularly by the Asian, European, and North American regional organizations.

Words of welcome

Dear colleagues

I am honoured inviting you to the marvellous city of Gävle to participate in IFAPA's 17th International Symposium on Adapted Physical Activity.

It is particularly pleasant, since the symposium is hosted this time in Sweden, where Per Henrik Ling has established some 150 years ago medical gymnastics and Bent Nirje has promoted some 40 years ago the Normalization movement, both of which recognized among the roots of modern APA.

Today, Sweden and Scandinavia are continuing to lead in many aspects of rehabilitation, well being, leisure activity and elite sports. Our host, SUH is linking APA tradition and current knowledge into an efficient structure of program development, academics and instructional services, a model for institutions and organizations around the world.

Looking forward to welcoming you in Gävle,

Yeshayahu Hutzler, PhD

President, International Federation of Adapted Physical Activity

It is my honour and pleasure to welcome you to the 17th ISAPA conference in Gävle. In the preparation of the program, the congress' Scientific Committee has prioritized scientific quality, innovativeness, development, and the multidisciplinary perspective within our field of expertise. Through renowned keynotes and excellent invited symposia, the Scientific Committee established a balanced framework of behavioural and natural sciences. It is, however, to you to make this congress successful through your scientific or professional contributions, your enthusiasm in sharing your knowledge and experience with colleagues, or by learning through participation and applying the acquired knowledge in your home contribution to the field of Adapted Physical Activity.

I welcome you to Gävle and to share your scientific knowledge or professional experience with your colleagues from all over the world.

On behalf of the ISAPA Scientific Committee,

Prof. Yves Vanlandewijck

Chairperson

Awards

IFAPA Awards

Since 1991, IFAPA has awarded outstanding Adapted Physical Activity (APA) scholarship and contribution.

Nominees for both awards must be current IFAPA members and indicate that they will attend the award ceremony, if selected.

The Young Professional Award in APA

The Young Professional Award in APA was established by Prof. Claudine Sherrill. It recognizes the development of passionate enthusiasm and inspiration in young APA professionals.

The goal of the award is to encourage, recognize, and support young professionals interested in physical activity for people of all abilities.

Eligibility for the Young Professional Award is restricted to professionals less than 40 years of age. One Young Professional Award is made by IFAPA and a second one by the local organizing committee of the Symposium.

These awards are presented at the International Symposium held every two years.

The Elly D. Friedmann Award for Outstanding APA Contributions

The Elly D. Friedmann Award for Outstanding APA Contributions was established by Prof. Gudrun Doll-Tepper and the Friedmann family in recognition of Dr. Friedmann's contribution to movement education and the integrated relationship of body, mind and soul.

It recognizes longstanding leadership, and outstanding academic and professional achievements in the field of adapted physical activity.

The Ingemar Wedman Award

This award is new for ISAPA and is established by SUH (The ISAPA 2009 organiser) to honor the memory of professor Ingemar Wedman who – way too early – passed away in January 2008.

Professor Wedman was the scientific leader of SUH and has worked and contributed both at Swedish and at international level. Professor Wedman had two main areas of interest. Those were sport science as a tool to develop paralympic sport and inclusion in education and sport. This award is targeting the first mentioned area.

The Ingemar Wedman award at ISAPA 2009 will be awarded to a researcher selected based on how his/her scientific work has or can be made useful for the development of paralympic sport. Note that this award can also be won based on research of sports for athletes with intellectual disability.

The Ingemar Wedman Award contains of a Diploma and the sum of 3 000 Euro.

Scholarships

The ISAPA 2009 Organizing Committee will offer two types of Scholarships, all of them open for participants from developing countries.

30 Scholarships will be offered that means that their registration fee will be waived. That means no registration fee for those who will receive this Scholarship.

10 Scholarships will be offered to researchers from developing countries that will get an abstract accepted for ISAPA 2009. If you are one of these researchers you can apply for one of these 10 Scholarships which mean that your registration fee will be waived and you will be offered free accommodation by the ISAPA 2009 Organizing Committee.

To apply for one of this Scholarships (30 + 10) write a letter with a maximum of 500 words explaining who you are and why you should receive one of these Scholarships. Send your application via e-mail to: kennet.frojd@suh.se or via fax to: +46-278244 56.

Deadline for Scholarships applications is 31 March 2009.

Film contest

The contest is open to all non-commercial videos produced after 2007 with topics that relate to the area of APA. A jury of specialists will select the winner in each of these categories:

- ✓ Instructional and scientific films
- ✓ Informational films about programs and activities
- ✓ Documentaries and features

Only contributions in digital format can be accepted. The film is to be produced in English and the length should be 15 minutes or less. There will be a total sum of 5 000 Euro as price money that will be shared between the winners (1 000 – 3 000/winner).

International volunteer program

At ISAPA 2009 we will have an international volunteer program. This program has two main purposes.

Firstly it will give students from different countries an opportunity to work together with the ISAPA 2009 Organising Committee and at the same time experience ISAPA 2009 without any cost for accommodation, meals or registration.

Secondly students with different cultural backgrounds and different language skills will be a great resource for the ISAPA 2009 Organizing Committee in the efforts to make ISAPA 2009 a great success. With this international volunteer group in cooperation with the ISAPA Organizers including Scientific and Organizing Committee we are convinced that all ISAPA participants will feel very welcome and get great service during their whole stay at ISAPA 2009 in Gävle, Sweden.

This International Volunteer Program will be open for 30 University students from all over the world.

To be selected for the program it will be a plus if you can speak English plus a second language. It is not a requirement that you can speak English fluently, but you must be able to make yourself understood in English. People in Sweden study English in School and can normally communicate rather well in English. Complementary to that English is the official ISAPA 2009 language. Therefore you need at least some skills in that to be able to become a part of the ISAPA 2009 International Volunteer Program.

As an International ISAPA 2009 Volunteer you will arrive to Gävle, Sweden on Thursday 18 June 2009 and you will depart from Gävle on Sunday 28 June.

You will have to find your own funding to pay for the travel costs to get to and from Gävle. The ISAPA Organizing Committee will take care of your accommodation with full board from dinner 18 June to breakfast 28 June.

Before ISAPA begins on 23 June you will get education and information so that you will be prepared to fulfill the different tasks you will be assigned to. You will also be given a chance to experience the Swedish Midsummer celebrations, that we think and believe can be a very unique experience.

To apply for the ISAPA 2009 International Volunteer Program write a personal letter where you include information about your:

- University studies
- APA experience
- different language skills
- contact details including e-mail and eventual cell phone number

Complementary to that you write somewhat about yourself and motivate why you shall be part of the Program.

Send you application via e-mail to: kennet.frojd@suh.se or via fax to: +46-27824456.

Deadline for applications is 31 December 2008.

Dear professors and other educators, please inform your students about this opportunity.
